

CRM readiness checklist

Are you actually ready to implement a CRM?

Tick each item you can honestly answer yes to. Gaps are where projects stall.

- 1 We have a clear business problem, not only a desire to buy new software
- 2 A leader can make process and priority decisions when we disagree
- 3 Salespeople are available to explain reality and test the new setup
- 4 We have access to existing spreadsheets, tools, and data owners
- 5 We agree that some old habits and fields may be retired
- 6 We have time after launch for coaching, measurement, and improvement
- 7 We know which numbers the system must report from day one
- 8 Someone is named to own feedback, fixes, and future changes

Scored under five? A smaller, well-scoped first phase beats a full rollout.
